The line consists of metal tool storage chests and cabinets as well as 25 new workshop accessories (sold separately) utilizing a heavy-duty metal rail as the centerpiece of the platform.

“Organization is crucial to keeping pros productive on the job – whether on the jobsite, in the warehouse or in their personal workspaces,” said Doug Redpath, President, Hand Tools, Accessories & Storage Group, Stanley Black & Decker. “The DEWALT Metal Workshop Storage System, designed with our customers in mind, is fully customizable and engineered for tough storage demands in a variety of environments.”

With heavy-duty steel construction, this durable rail can support up to 100 lbs. per linear foot and works with a wide range of system accessories. The rail includes two endcap joiners that provide a finished look and the ability to seamlessly connect multiple rails horizontally.
